For the bathroom

Longevity is the new luxury. Prioritise recycled materials and water-saving devices that help curb wastage. Materials that are earth friendly and leave no harmful traces of impact on the living world are what we want.

For the living room

Repurposing spells are exciting for us these days. Before you step out on your next shopping trip, visit your cupboard for a refurbishing spree.

Layer and pair furnishings and accessories with colours and textures new to the space. Embrace what you already have at home to lead a more sustainable lifestyle.

In the kitchen

The kitchens of our ancestors focused on slow cooking and preservation techniques that were simple, innovative and effective. Somewhere along the line, the modern world forgot the benefits of the old days. We urge you to catch up with the golden way of life.

In the bedroom

Sustainable and natural materials like jute, cotton, linen, straw, and metal, calm the senses and help us stay rooted and well-rested. Actively opt for designs and ideas that celebrate craftsmanship and lend an evocative narrative to this space.
